FROM OUR BROTHER-EDITOR.

London, July 28, 1885.

Every reasonable person in London now believes that the Mahdi is dead. Col. Grenfell telegraphs from Cairo that it is beyond doubt. I suppose I must give in that it is so, but there is some uncertainty as to what he died of. He seems to have died in the Ramadan, which, of course, you know, corresponds to our Lent, except that the Mussulmen eat nothing till sundown, and then have a well-spread board. By one account he died on the 29th of June, from small-pox, but it is generally believed that he died on the 21st, of putrid fever, caused by leaving so many thousands of corpses unburied at Khartoum. Osman Digna and his army went into mourning for three days. Meantime, the Government announced last night in the House of Commons that measures are being taken for the relief of the heroic garrison of Kassala.

This morning's Daily News, which I send herewith, has a very interesting narrative, by Father Bononi, of the sufferings of the priests and nuns at El Obeid. The ransom demanded for him was £150, but neither the Italian nor the British Government would consent to pay so large a sum; happily, Lord Wolseley exceeded his instructions and paid the money, which must now be defrayed by Great Britain, as the Cabinet of King Humbert will not pay it.

The launch of the new Italian ironclad, Morosini, shows what stupendous sums the Italian Government is laying out in naval armaments. She will rival the Lepanto, the most formidable vessel ever constructed, being 11,000 tons burthen, 10,000 horse-power, 330 feet keel, and carrying 4 guns of the largest ever made, 106 tons. She is to steam 16 knots an hour.

That we are to have a war with Russia seems now only a question of months, but at present the weather is so hot in Afghanistan that no operations would be possible. The fortification of Herat continues, and the Russians are massing troops near the disputed Zulfikar Pass, which is the key to that city.

The Russian Press is very bitter against Lord Salisbury, and for this reason public feeling in England is more contented. We feel instinctively that the present Cabinet will not be fooled as the last was.

All the Gladstone Press is very outspoken against the alliance between the Cabinet and the Home Rule party, and declares it is worse than the Kilmainham Treaty. If Mr. Parnell returns 80 members at the next election, it may well be that he and Lord Salisbury will keep out the Chamberlain-Bradlaugh faction. So much the better. Let us have Home Rule, or whatever you like, provided such men as Chamberlain, Dilke, Mundella and Bradlaugh are prevented from having things their own way. They are, however, very confident of a sweeping majority, and threaten us with a Gambetta phase of policy in this country.

So far as one can judge from the papers, the Entre Rios Loan has been a great success. The papers of Saturday seemed to allude to some other loan, which, I suppose, is Dr. Pellegrini's, for they said that on Monday there would be "a heavy withdrawal of gold for Buenos Ayres." A new loan was announced yesterday for Natal, a colony mainly consisting of negroes, in 4½ per cent stock. The time seems favorable for loans.

You will be sorry to hear that the late lamented Consul Hutchinson left his wife in destitute circumstances, her sole provision being a life annuity of £32 a year, which he managed to buy out of his savings. His pension died with him, and a few friends here have subscribed £2 a year each to keep Mrs. Hutchinson from want. She is living in a little village, a few miles from Florence, and, being in advanced years (aged 64), is unable to earn a living. The STANDARD will do an act of kindness by inviting 20 or 30 persons, who knew Dr. Hutchinson, to subscribe £2 a year each for the support of his widow.

Some cases of sunstroke occurred last week during the intense heat, the glass marking 94 in the shade even in Scotland. Some ironworks had to suspend works, and the heat here in London is so terrific that the West End is deserted.

The shooting for the Elcho Shield at Wimbledon resulted in a victory this year for Scotland, but some of the competitors had to be sent to hospital, overcome by the heat.

The Rev. Dean Dillon, accompanied by the Rev. M. Flannery, and Mr. Harrington, jun., of San Pedro, left town yesterday for Bath, to visit the well-known Benedictine College of Downside, after which they proceed to Ireland. They have had a very pleasant trip on the Rhine. I am sorry to say that Dean Dillon is by no means strong, but I hope that his native air will be beneficial.

Please put a notice in the STANDARD that the Handbook is on sale at Messrs. Trubner's, Ludgate-hill, or Messrs. Street, 30 Cornhill, as numbers of people write to ask me where it can be found.

The death of General Grant has caused much sympathy here, and the Dean of Westminster is going to have a funeral celebration for him. Some houses in the city have hoisted the American flag half-mast high, with crape, and the military bands did not play as usual on Sunday, in consequence of the event.

I saw a meeting last Sunday in Hyde Park with a banner inscribed, "The Land for the People." There were six ill-looking fellows standing around, but the public passed on heedless. I thought to myself that Mr. Chamberlain's, Mr. Davitt's and Mr. Henry George's scheme of confiscating land-owners found little echo, even on a Sunday evening, in Hyde Park. There is a reaction against Radicalism, Liberalism, Democracy and all that kind of thing, thanks to the efforts of Messrs. Labouchere, Bradlaugh and their friends.

IMPORTANT NOTE.

We give hereunder the note of Mr. Sastre, President of the National Bank, to the Minister of Hacienda on the great subject of emission. We certainly must compliment Mr. Sastre, on the great industry which he has betrayed, in supplying the Minister with so many useful statistics about the provinces, their trade, population, and requirements, and we note that Mr. Sastre is entirely of accord with us, that the present note emission for the Capital and for the Province of Buenos Ayres is amply sufficient. The great difficulty that occurs to us is, if increased capitals are given by means of an increased issue, to the National Bank in the provinces, how will those banks retain their notes in the provinces, and is it not more than probable that all these new notes will come back again to this market. Mr. Sastre has taken so much trouble in compiling his facts and figures, that we fully appreciate the labor he bestowed on the subject, and it is a good sign to see the President of the Bank devoting so much attention to a note, which in former times would not pass the limit of 4 or 5 lines amounting in reality to nothing.

The following is Mr. Sastre's note. We have had to eliminate some of the tables owing to our limited space:—

August 26th 1885.

To H.E. the National Finance Minister.

I have informed the Board of Directors of the National Bank of the verbal request of Y.E. for data in reference to the circulation in the several provinces of the Republic, and the amount of circulating medium required for their industries and trade, and I have now the honour to send Y.E. the required particulars.

The total monetary circulation of the Argentine provinces, leaving out Buenos Ayres, is $16,019,000 m/n of which $13,319,000 is of the National Bank, and $2,700,000 of other banks established in those provinces. A comparison of these figures with the number of inhabitants is quite sufficient to show that the circulation is in every way insufficient for the legitimate wants of industry and trade. Excepting the provinces of Entre Rios and Santa Fé, in which the circulation is about $20 per head, the proportion in the others is much under what the gradual development of the country requires.

The following is a comparison of the population and circulation in each province:—

Province	Inhabit.	Circulation	P. Head
Entre Rios	200,000	3 886,000	19.43
Santa Fé	220,000	4,372,000	19.87
Mendoza	110,000	1,416,000	12.87
Tucuman	150,000	1,436,000	7.98
San Juan	100,000	287,000	2.87
Cordoba	330,000	1,699,000	5.15
Corrientes	196,000	956,000	4.88
San Luis	85,000	400,000	4.70
Rioja	87,000	276,000	3.16
Santiago	140,000	429,000	3.07
Salta	180,000	486,000	2.70
Catamarca	53,000	227,000	7.44
Jujuy	64,000	150,000	2.34
	1,935,000	16,019,000

This low rate of circulation is not only insufficient for the present wants of the country, its industry and trade, but is, of course, still more inadequate for the further development of its prosperity. In the opinion of the Board, and bearing in mind the number of people and the wealth in each province, the loans advanced by this National Bank, and the movement of the bank's capital, the circulation in those provinces ought to be $28,374,000; as Y.E. can see by a glance at the table.

To meet the present and prospective wants of the thirteen Argentine provinces, it will be indispensable to increase the circulation to a prudent extent, in proportion to the population, wealth and trade of each.

As for the province of B. Ayres and the territory of the Capital, this Board has not such reliable data, or figures based (such as those I have just laid before you) on the official reports of the respective branches, and knowledge of the business doing through the medium of the bank itself. The Board has only an imperfect idea of the business of the Provincial Bank of Buenos Ayres and of the private banks in this city, which do a large business. Therefore, it can only make a safe calculation of the circulation in the capital of the Republic and province of Buenos Ayres, and set it down at $45,000,000; or $30 per head in the province of Buenos Ayres, and 38 for each inhabitant of the capital of the Republic. It may thus be affirmed that the capital of the Republic and the province of Buenos Ayres have enough circulation for their business, and, with Entre Rios and Santa Fé, are in a very different situation from the rest of the Republic.

For these reasons the Board of this bank submits to Y E the expediency of restoring to the bank the issuing power granted by its charter and thus enable it to meet the wants of trade and commerce in those provinces that require it.

The prudent use of this power, if it be restored to the National Bank, would not be injurious in any way, as it would not legitimately affect the value of the circulating medium. So long as the loans are for the real wants of trade and industry, and given to responsible persons for reproductive business, there can be no fear of the issue being in excess of the public wants, as the ebb and flow of business will keep it at the proper level. Thus, if new business requires fresh money which will in turn create more new business and a further demand for money, the note will remain in circulation solely so long as it is required, and will return to the issuing bank in the form of a payment or deposit the moment it is not required in the market. By complying with these conditions the depreciation of the note can never be charged to excess of circulation, as proved by the experience of every country that has had forced currency.

If the exigencies of the public service disturb the market and force it to receive in payment of extraordinary credits a quantity of unnecessary notes, the plethora will be felt at once, and the rate of interest in the open market will fall to that charged by the issuing banks for their loans, the result being that, as private parties lend the notes on the same terms of credit and repayment, and at a lower interest than the issuing banks, these establishments will not only have no demand for loans, but their debtors will borrow in the open market at the lower interest and will bring in the notes in payment of their debts, thus forcing a withdrawal of the excess of circulation. The sign that this excess had disappeared would be the levelling of the current rates of discount in the market, the evil having cured itself; and it would not re-appear unless the causes did.

Y.E. is aware that the main and most powerful cause of the depreciation of the forced currency notes is that the country is obliged to pay its foreign obligations in gold; and the only way to avert this danger is to increase the nation's productions by every means. The scarcity of a circulating medium, which is to-day insufficient in eleven Argentine provinces, and lessened in its cancelling power by the inevitable depreciation of the bank note, makes this production more difficult, while it is essential to stimulate the country's activity and powers by loans at long dates.

Meanwhile, if the circulation be maintained at its present amount, insufficient for the country's wants, it will not only impede the action of this bank and force it to restrict its discounts, but will produce an immediate fall in all values and a paralyzation of industry, entailing a violent liquidation of many enterprises now starting and which require a free use of credit for their development.

It may be possible that the just and expedient step which the Board now advocates may affect Bolsa transactions and cause a further temporary depreciation in the bank-note. The Board does not think so; because an increase in the circulation would only be authorised in case trade and industry absolutely require it. In any case Y E well knows that Bolsa operations, when not based on the real wants of the country or on genuine business, settle themselves, and public interest and good sense in a short time restores the balance to normal conditions; irrespective of the action which the issuing banks can take at favourable moments to restrain the unbridled movements of speculation.

I avail of this opportunity etc.

Angel Sastre.

The Congo's Mails.

London, August 4th.

A Cabinet Council was held yesterday, at which fourteen Ministers were present. The absentees were the Lord Chancellor of Ireland and the Duke of Richmond and Gordon.

In the House of Lords yesterday several Bills were advanced a stage.

In the House of Commons Mr. W.H. Smith, in answer to questions, said steps were being taken for the relief of the European troops at Souakim, and in October the Indian troops will be relieved. Lord John Manners announced that the sixpenny telegram rate would come into operation on the 1st October. The Criminal Law Amendment Bill was again considered in Committee, a stage which it ultimately passed.

A telegram from St. Petersburg states that nothing is known in official circles there with regard to any conflict on the Afghan border, and the report of fighting near Meruchak is declared to be without foundation. M. de Giers, the Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs, leaves to-day for a holiday of two months.

A telegram from Simla states that it is proposed to increase the native army in India by the addition of two companies to each battalion of infantry and a squadron to each regiment of cavalry. This is said to meet with the approval of the Government.

Yesterday's "North German Gazette" contains an article on the relations between France and Germany in reply to some recent remarks in the Paris "Temps" which recommended the strengthening of the French cavalry force on the south-eastern frontier. The "North German Gazette" declares that against its will it is forced to believe that France is only waiting for a favourable opportunity to make a favourable descent upon Germany, either single-handed or in alliance with others.

A Berlin telegram states that there is no foundation whatever in the report that the German Crown Prince has met with an accident in Switzerland.

We learn from St. Petersburg that an earthquake has occurred in Central Asia. At Belovodsk a church fell in, and many of the congregation were killed.

A great fire has taken place at Toronto, and damage is estimated at a million dollars. Several steamboats and sailing vessels were destroyed; as well as warehouses and factories.

The Bank Holiday of yesterday was characterised by dry weather which enabled pleasure-seekers out-of-doors to enjoy themselves without any of the discomforts attending a heavy downpour of rain such as was experienced last Whit Monday. At the International Exhibition there were over 51,000 visitors, at the Crystal Palace 48,000, at the Albert Palace 19,000, at the South Kensington Museum nearly 10,000; and the railway and steamboat traffic was in every case extremely large. No accidents are reported as having occurred.

The nineteenth annual meeting of the Legislative Council of the British United Order of Oddfellows was opened at Leeds yesterday under the presidency of Mr. E. Jackson, the Grand Master, who stated that during the past year they had increased their numbers to 12,165 members, against 11,638 at the close of the year 1883, showing a gain of 532 members. During the year over 13,000*l.* had been received in contributions, and nearly 8,000*l.* had been paid to sick members.

Yesterday the court-martial on Capt. Albert Markham and Sub-Lieut. Nicholson, of H.M.S. Hecla, for negligent performance of duty, whereby the safety of the ship was hazarded, was concluded. The Court acquitted both the prisoners, and added that every credit was due to the captain, officers, and crew of the Hecla for the promptitude with which they went to the assistance of the passengers and crew of the Cheerful after the collision, which occurred on the 21st ult.

A most extraordinary case came before Mr. Vaughan at the Bow-street Police-court yesterday, a man named James Donovan being charged with assaulting and robbing Thomas Mews and his son on board a Thames steamboat, which was following a boat race, on Saturday. It was alleged that the prisoner, after threatening to stab him and the lad attempted to throw him overboard. One of the witnesses also complained of having had 35*l.* taken from him on the same boat by a gang of roughs, and in the end the magistrate remanded Donovan for a week, in order that independent evidence might be obtained.

A special meeting of shareholders of the Munster Bank was held at Dublin yesterday, for the purpose of considering the advisability of voluntarily winding-up the concern, and a resolution to that effect was adopted. It was then moved by Mr. Bulger that three directors, Messrs. Reardon, Murphy, and Payne, be appointed provisional liquidators. The motion was seconded and, after some discussion, passed. The shareholders were afterwards asked to withdraw, and the creditors of the Bank then held a meeting in the same place, when similar resolutions were agreed to.

Yesterday, as is customary on Bank Holiday, the Stock Exchange was closed, and no transactions took place in public securities.

LONDON LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

WHIPPINGHAM, WIMBLEDON AND BUMBLEDOM.

July, 23.

The Russian, and even the "Modern Babylon" craze, are to-day all forgotten by the sound, sober, moral, loyal bread-and-butterdom of English life. The day is divine—cool, bright, and summer-like—and our eyes turn to Southampton waters, gay with the flags of yacht and war-ship, and to the quaint little church of Whippingham, filled to inconvenience with British and German princes, dukes, lords and ladies' in attendance at the marriage of Princess Beatrice with Prince Henry of Battenberg. You will see enough about it in to-morrow's papers. Meantime your lady readers will like to know something about the dresses.

The bride's dress was of the richest Duchesse satin, draped with one of the finest specimens of Honiton lace, in which the Queen herself was married. The Royal crown appears in the design. The front of the skirt had a deep satin kilting, over which fell a fringe of orange blossom buds; the lace lent by her Majesty caught down with bunches of orange blossom above this; and on the left side was a panel formed of orange blossom. The low white satin bodice was pointed back and front, and had lace laid round the top with a garland of orange blossom, a few tufts of white heather resting on the front. The veil matched the lace on the dress, but did not fall over the face. The train had no trimming, except a lace ruche inside. The bridesmaids were all dressed in the same materials, white satin with a lozenge-shape brocade of white velvet, betrimmed with lace, each arranged as best to suit the wearer.

Princess Christian wore a trained skirt of blue and white Louis XV. brocade over a white satin petticoat, trimmed with Honiton lace, as was the bodice, cut heart shape back and front, with elbow sleeves. The silk was just the colour of turquoise, and her Royal Highness displayed a fine parure of turquoise and diamonds.

The Duchess of Edinburgh appeared in a berge of two shades, a mixture of corduroy and crêpe-de-chine, embroidered in self colour, the trained skirt corduroy, the crêpe-de-chine draped, over it large panel trimmings, at the side of berge beads and satin drops. The bodice and tunic were cut en Princesse, and there was a waist coat of old point lace.

The dress in which the Princess started on her honeymoon was all pure white, as is the custom with brides of our Royal Family. It was made of China crape, covered with a tiny pattern in brocade, and was trimmed with the finest Irish point, bordering the drapery carried across the front, the three falling in very graceful folds. It was completed by a short dolman of the crêpe-de chine, bordered sleeves and all, with the same lace. The bonnet was white velvet, the brim worked in silver, a mass of ostrich feathers, and an osprey aigrette on the top, and a tuft of white heather at the side.

The next pretty thing in connection with the event is this, and then I have done with it:

TO H.R.H. PRINCESS BEATRICE.

Two Suns of Love make day of human life,
Which else with all its pains and griefs and deaths
Were utter darkness—one, the Sun of dawn
That brightens through the Mother's tender eyes,
And warms the child's awakening world—and one
The later-rising Sun of spousal Love
Which from her household orbit draws the child
To move in other spheres. The Mother weeps
At that white funeral of the single life,
Her maiden daughter's marriage; and her tears
Are half of pleasure, half of pain—the child
Is happy—ev'n in leaving her! But Thou,
True daughter, whose all-faithful, filial eyes
Have seen the loneliness of earthly thrones,
Wilt neither quit the widow'd Crown, nor let
This later light of Love have risen in vain,
But moving thro' the Mother's home, between
The two that love thee, lead a summer life,
Sway'd by each Love, and swaying to each Love
Like some conjectured planet in mid heaven
Between two Suns, and drawing down from both
The light and genial warmth of double day.
TENNYSON.

At Wimbledon they have had magnificent weather, and the shooting has been grand. The Scots carried away the Echo Shield; and, deducting the occasions in which the Northerners sulked and did not contend as they have done at football and other things, the Scots are now one ahead of the English; and they are perfectly justified in bragging, as they do, that although the great prize of the meeting (the Queen's) was taken by a Lincolnshire man, four out of the seven first marksmen were Scots, and so were 22 out of the 60 picked men who contested. The population of England is 7 to 1, compared with Scotland. Still the Scots are the Swiss of the British Kingdom, and we expect them to win particularly in the long shots. As you will see, the English kept the lead at first and fell off at the long distances. In fact, in England at the present day there are no natural long shots without the danger of potting a parson, a squire, a waggoner, or a woman sketching. In the fens of Lincolnshire, perhaps, one might fire at a swan without committing homicide. The Lincolnshire man, Mr. Bulmer, who won the Queen's prize, is a grand specimen of an Englishman—of just those men who landed from the "Mayflower" on Plymouth rock. His portrait would serve for that of a New Englander of the best kind. He is a man of forty, a bachelor, a farmer, and tall, little nutty, grizzled, silent, cool, manly and soldier-like. He began life as an ironmonger. Cromwell began, they say, as a brewer. He didn't; but that is no matter. It is the same stuff, still alive, and only wants a regular mixing, which we shall have soon, to bring to the top again.

Whilst at Osborne they are marrying and giving in marriage, in the House of Lords they are discussing the Housing of the working classes, and Lord Ashbourne's Land Purchase (Ireland) Bill. Lord Salisbury is evidently going to cut out the old Liberals, and of his argument in favour of the Housing Bill, Lord Bramwell, advocate general for abuses, told him 'it was the most remarkable piece of socialism that he had ever heard.' Lord Bramwell & Co. got completely upset the other day on the Water Company Question, in a Court of Law; and in short the Property Defence Association fares badly. As for Lord Ashbourne's purchase bill—keep your eye on it, and you will understand the social and political state of this country. It is supported by Conservatives, Liberals and Radicals of the old Bright and Cobden School. It is opposed by Tories, the Duke of Argyll, the Irish party beneath Parnell, and which under Davitt is gradually supplanting that humbug and his Biggars, and by the Social-Democrats in England who are fast joining hands with Mr Davitt and his Irish friends.

In regard to the Munster Bank, the following particularly English and self-complacent advice is offered by the city man of the Daily News. He may be right but his style is priggish:—

"Much may be forgiven to men who speak with despair in their hearts, but after making all allowances, the shareholders of the Munster Bank went a little too far on Saturday. Their talk about the strength and solvency of their institution was nonsense. Had the bank been solvent, it would have been alive to-day, and there would be no need to go to the Government for help. That idea of getting the Government to "back" Munster Bank bills, in order that money might be obtained from the Bank of Ireland, thoroughly Irish in conception as it is, discloses most significantly the utter poverty that brought about the failure. If the Munster Bank had possessed, or did possess now, 10s. in the pound in good negotiable Securities, it would not have found the least difficulty in obtaining money from any banker. But it had few or no negotiable Securities to offer beyond those pawned to the Bank of Ireland for an advance of £410,000. Hence it failed, and it would be just as well for the Shareholders not to delude themselves any longer with fanciful balance-sheets. Let them get a high-class English or Scotch accountant habituated to banking audits to report on their affairs, and if he says the bank is sound at the core, let them call up a pound or two per Share and resucitate it."

Mrs. Weldon even in prison has managed to attain a little temporary notoriety by patronising a stray Cockatoo, which had got itself fast by the leg to a church steeple, near the window of her cell. She wrote, as you will have seen, to the Pall Mall Gazette, and was no doubt instrumental in getting the bird released. She has not been so fortunate in further proceedings, in her case with Mr. Gounod. She has, however, proved too strong for the Birmingham festival committee, and has effectually frightened the great composer from coming to England to conduct his new oratorio 'Mors et Vita,' under the supposition that M. Gounod was to receive a large sum of money from Messrs Novello Gover & Co., the music publishers, who have purchased the copyright of his new work, she applied to the higher Courts to appoint a receiver that she might receive the fruits of the two judgments she had obtained, awarding her £11,040 in the Sheriff's court in the city. The Lord Chief Justice ruled that the defendant M. Gounod, who resides in Paris, was out of the jurisdiction of the court. Mr Justice Smith concurred in this ruling, and Mrs Weldon's application was refused with costs. The woman has previously served a notice on Messrs. Novello & Co. to pay what they owe to M. Gounod into court, but that manœuvre was stopped at once, as Messrs Novello had already paid for "Mors et Vita" cash on delivery of the score and therefore they owed nothing. The whole case is disgraceful and together with many recent verdicts in the courts of justice is calculated to destroy the old abiding faith of Englishmen in trial by jury.

Cholera is frightful in Spain. In Odessa there is a dread of the Siberian plague, to which cholera is a mere stomach-ache. The heat in the south of Europe is terrible. General Grant, you will have seen, is dead; and for the third or fourth time you will hear that the Mahdi is dead. Beyond that there is nothing.

AMERICAN CHURCH.

August 29th 1885.

To the Editor of the STANDARD

Dear Sir,

The report published by you on the 26th inst. of a statement made by me on the previous Sabbath, in my pulpit, is correct as far as it goes, and has my approval. Moreover, I thank you for publishing it.

In to-day's issue, your correspondent, A. M. H. attempts to controvert the facts contained in that statement by a series of "appearances," "hypotheses," "ifs," and inferences, concerning which I venture the assertion that facts being stubborn things, are not to be overturned in this way. If your correspondent—on further reflection—is satisfied with the showing he has made, let it be so.

It is not necessary however, nor is it my purpose, to afflict the public with a discussion of either the merits or demerits of the unhappy difficulty that has arisen in the American church. Suffice it to state, that it is in process of settlement, and that when it is settled, the facts necessary or right for the public to know will be made known.

Meantime it is not necessary for me, or any one, to apologize for the membership or Trustees of the First church, or for the superintendent of the mission Revd. Dr. Wood. Their actions are to be judged, not by the opinions or prejudices of any one man or set of men, but by the well-defined and authoritative law of the church.

Respectfully

Thomas H. Stockton Pastor.
First M. E. Church.

THE MERCEDES EXHIBITION.

This Rural and Industrial Show, which comes off in Mercedes on the 6th to 8th September, promises to be the greatest and best Exhibition they ever had in Mercedes; and we gather, from the respectable and influential list of exhibitors whose names are already sent in, an idea of the importance and character of the exhibits.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The landing of the Leibnitz gold yesterday was a grand affair; mole crowded, changadores' teeth watering, cartmen offering to cart the boxes up for nothing. £250,000 in one single vessel. This is the largest thing in that line that we ever remember, and to augment the magnitude of the news, another lot of £200,000 stg., comes ashore from the Tamar. Of the above sums £400,000 are for National and £50,000 for Provincial Bank. Some of the London papers are so bewildered at seeing so much gold withdrawn from the Bank of England for the River Plate, that they correct the statement and say 50,000 goes to the Plate and the rest to Egypt. They will have to cast old Egypt again before they make of it as good a country for investment as the Plate.

The French packet brings news of the flight of the Manager of the Munster Bank, charged with embezzling £60.000. It is thought in London he has gone to Spain and from thence to the Plate where he will settle down under another name. A large reward is offered for his apprehension, his name is Farquharson and was formerly in a bank at Galashiels. He is a most fashionable and taking man.

The Congo has brought 378 passengers and her mails were delivered last evening.

The advanced guard of the "Salvation Army" arrived in this port last week in the Barque 'County of Bute' from New Port, and much to the astonishment of the Sanitary Officer, received him with banners flying, and they then marched round the quarter-deck to the tune of the "Mulligan guards," played slowly. It is expected that they will coalesce with the "Blue Ribbon" army at Barracas and make a joint attack on Buenos Ayres from that quarter.

Wedding cards have been sent round, announcing the marriage of Mr. William Armstrong with Miss Anita Soler. At the interesting marriage ceremony, which took place last week, Dr. Benitez, one of the Supreme Court Judges, Madame Libaros and some of the most fashionable members of Buenos Ayres society attended. Madame Soler, the mother of the bride, has a wide English circle of friends; she is known to us all as a distinguished literata, and returned last year from a European tour. The happy bridegroom is nephew of the late Mr Thos. Armstrong, who for half a century figured as the most representative foreigner in Buenos Ayres. We wish the young couple every felicity.

Great news yesterday, from Tucuman; we refer to our special telegram; the Sugar Refinery Company is at last launched.

Another magnificent English railway bridge is to be built for the Plate, cost £40,000. It is for the Central Uruguay Railway and to span the Rio Negro. The line is finished as far as Villasboa.

Yesterday the Montevidean Government paid into the London and River Plate Bank 400,000 m/n gold to meet the September coupons. Good news for the bondholders.

Gladstone sick and Osman Digna alive and kicking is the news by the Congo. The Afghan question is pottering along, but Russia appears to be slowly giving way. It is, probably, however, on the "reculer pour mieux sauter" principle.

There was a good deal of lightning knocking about the sky at 23¾ o'clock on Friday, but nothing came of it. The glass is falling, and Saint Rose is sure to turn up to-day or to-morrow. In Montevideo on Friday they were half broiled.

A project to issue more Bonds, for the railway from Salta to Jujuy, will be brought before Congress on Tuesday. More Bonds! And the country up to its eyes in Bonds, and shinplasters and every imaginable kind of promise to pay. Madness has seized on our rulers and lawmakers. Witness the fatal scope given to forced currency by the duffers in the Senate, and almost without a word of debate. It is really quite flabbergasting to see a legislator coolly propose more "uso de credito" at the present desperate juncture.

More smuggling has been discovered at Concordia by Mr. Camelino who seems to be quite the broth of a boy, and a veritable Custom House ferret. Some of the parties captured say that they did not think it was any harm. Lots of pious and practical people hold the same view. We'd smuggle a lot of good cigars, if we got the chance.

They say that excellent vaccine matter is now being obtained fresh from cows and calves at Santa Catalinas Farm. They said this often before.

There was all but a boxing match on Friday between the Rt. Honourable Lord Mayor and Alderman del Campo, at the conference held by his Lordship and some of the Corporation about San Roque Hospital. The row began, as usual, with strong language from his Lordship, who said the Consejales should attend to his Boulevard and such things in preference to hospitals. Alderman del Campo said it was just the contrary. Word followed word; the Lord Mayor let slip some peculiarly offensive remark, and the Alderman squared out at him in what he doubtless considered Tom Sayer's fashion. His Lordship did the same, and they were just going square from the shoulder, when the Councillors present interfered, and the row was over.

The lawyers are beginning to enjoy their oft-predicted feed off the Terence Moore estate. Judge Basualdo got a bill of costs yesterday of 20,000 Nats from Messrs Chas and Martinez, the highly distinguished lawyers. Mr. Carabassa, the executor says the bill is tremendously high. The Judge will decide. The estate is now known to be worth a round three millions of Nats.

In the Juez de Menores' court on Friday, while a divorced Italian couple were disputing the possession of their little four-year-old girl, the lady seized the Judge's stick from a corner and thrashed her spouse into the street, for some remark he made about her character. The unfortunate wight was all in a tremble before his outraged consort, who is evidently the best man of the two.

Lord Byron used to say that a man ought to marry by all means, although he owned that the greater part of marriages are unhappy. A man cannot be happy without a wife. Yet it is strange what real liberty of choice can be exercised on most occasions. Many a man, too, fancies he marries by choice, whereas he marries only by compulsion.

The Necochea "vecinos" want a branch of the Provincial Bank. Necochea is too young a place to be trusted with such a costly toy as a bank.

We see lots of complaints in the papers about certain streets being "mal empedrados." What an idea! Will any white man, or even half-breed in town name a single street that is "bien empedrada." We can't.

The Italian steamer Perseo has brought 800 new chins, with 1600 new legs and as many hands, (barring "mancos." They will all find employment. This country is a sponge for Italians. Sucks them up like warm water.

Our "valiente colega" is the newest form of mutual admiration amongst the scores of wretched, little, provincial, political sheets that fancy they can influence the Presidential election. Lord help them; for we can't; and would n't if we could. Our "valiente colega"!!!

The Rosario papers report an extraordinary operation by Dr Vitale (good name for a Sawbones!) on an old soldier who had a grape shot in his nose ever since the battle of Alsina Bridge five years ago. Dr. V. cut out the shot, which, according to our usually veracious colleague, the Capital, weighed two ounces and twenty grammes! The soldier must have a thundering big proboscis.

Will nobody volunteer to shoot a few editors in the Interior, to make the survivors use averagely decent language in their political polemics? The terms in which most of them write of their opponents are outrageous and worse than ridiculous.

Poor Concordia has got an Industrial Club. We tender Concordia our most sincere sympathy.

The Buenos Aires Legislature voted 2000 nats on Friday to fill up the deficit in the Admiral Brown Statue Fund. There is still however, a shortage of 1000 nats.

Thanks to the frightful rapacity of our cormorant 'abogados,' arbitration is rapidly coming into vogue. Messrs. Unzue and Bertram are now followed by Messrs. Cano and Berraondo, who have just settled a dispute about the Alegria Theatre in the same sensible manner. It will be a grand day for the country when seven-eights of its lawyers are left without as much business as would keep them in 'alpargatas.' It will be a grand day for them also, as they will have to take to some more honest calling.

The news from Maipu is that the rivers are rising like gold there, and they expect to be washed out by Santa Rosa.

The old monstrous humbug. The third class passengers by the Perseo were sent to Martin Garcia, but the first and second were allowed to land. River Plate quarantine for ever! What a farce!

All the space in the Mercedes Fair has been taken up, so further application, high or low is quite useless.

The City Improvement Works are timed to be finished on April 4th next year. Considering everything, past, present, probable and possible, the 1st of the month in question would be a far more appropriate date for the conclusion of the works.

Commendador Vecchi has arrived by the Perseo to look after the Italian schools here. It appears that King Humbert subsides all the Ligurian schools in this country.

An officer in the army of the United States recommended to a brother-officer the services of a trooper in the capacity of tailor, with the final eulogy, "he has made a suit of clothes for me." It was only after the brother-officer's carefully imported cloth had all been spoiled in the cutting out that the cruel perpetrator of the joke remarked casually, "Oh, yes, he made a suit of clothes for me; but I forgot to add I couldn't wear them!"

A madman at the Boca caused a mild sensation on Friday by collecting a lot of stones and taking shots at the passers-by. But for his being a bad shot, he would have brained several people. However, he did roll over an Italian in the itinerant orange trade, and the police then boned him.

The Rio papers say that Rossi's dramatic company, which was at first coldly received there, has ended by crea ing a 'delirio.' South American audiences, be they Imperial or Republican, are very subject to theatrical delirium.

A grand musical and literary entertainment is given in Salvador College to-day by the Academia del Plata. Our distinguished young friends Drs. Klappenbach and Farrell, are in the programme, the first for a song, and the latter for the delivery of a piece of poetry of his own composition.

The Spanish Government has caught Master Paul of Angulo, and means to try him for the murder of General Prim. It's all up with Paul.

Lacroze, they say, is likely to be allowed to make a tramway to the green hills of Lomas. The traffic to that much vaunted locality won't pay for the maize, but there will be quite a lot of intermediate traffic.

They had a rousing shock of earthquake in Mendoza last Tuesday, and the people were alarmed. Nobody hurt.

An exchange says:—"Ladies are henceforth to be relieved of fanning themselves, electricity being now applied to the working of fans for drawing-room use. The playful tap of an ordinary fan was electrifying enough for male mankind, but who can estimate the thrilling potentialities of a double-patent electrozephyrfier?"

A person met Mr. Durham, and told him that he was just making preparations, by painting (pronounced in Scotland, penting) his house, &c., for bringing home a second wife, when he was on the point of marrying. "Weel, weel, Harry, quoth the witty laird, "you may pent away—and ye may also re-pent."

Gold	45.50 o/o prem.
Cedulas E	80½
Cedulas G	87
Nat. Bank Certificates	96

An intense sigh of relief escaped from the oppressed bears, as the gold market opened with a falling tendency this morning. It rained gold dollars at the ring, and the unexpected plethora of the precious metal put the premium down 2½ o/o. Last night's high prices came down by the run, and a weak feeling was rampant all morning.
The apparent cause of the sudden fall today was the abundance of gold secured by exchange transactions and the liberality of all the banks in lending specie. At first, a rumor was spread that the gold arrived in the Tamar and Leibnitz was being sold, but the report was too absurd to gain credit. It would be folly on the part of the National Bank to let go the gold, or even to lend it at moments when everything looks so shaky in the speculative market.
The fall was greeted by all, and the bulls were quite as glad as the bears to see the change in the market. Had yesterday's rise continued the liquidation would have proved disastrous, and it would be better for the market at large if the premium fell a few points more. The liquidation, however, inspires little apprehension now.
Such was the amount of cash gold thrown on the market that the ring presented the aspect of a settlement day. Operations for cash were larger than for the end of the month or September. Some parties sold very heavily, and several well-known dealers let go for the end of next month. Heavy differences were paid all day in backwardation. Three points difference was the average of operations passed from one month to another. Such tremendous interest brought immense amounts of gold on the market. Three per cent per month is not a bad business for holders of gold.
Operations in gold for cash embraced 369,000 m/n. The market opened at 46½ and closed at 45½. Over three hundred thousand were sold for Monday, rates opening at 47, rising to 47½, falling to 45 and closing at 46, weak. About three hundred thousand dollars were sold for the end of September. Operations opened at 44½, fell to 42½, and closed at 43. Operations during official hours amounted to nearly a million dollars. The market opened weak, rose slightly, and closed with a falling tendency. Immediately after the close of official hours the price for Monday fell to 45½.
Cedulas show fresh signs of weakness. A few thousand Series E changed hands at 80½. Operations in Series G embraced 15,000 cash at 87½ and 87, and 5,000 for September at 87. Eight hundred Certificates of the National Bank were sold for Monday at 96. National Bank Stock ought to rise, in view of the new law on fixed currency, now before Congress. One of the clauses of this law stipulates that all the profits of the Bank shall go to the shareholders. The Bank, furthermore, has the smiling prospects of further emission, which will increase its business and its gains. There appears to be little doubt about the matter.
Rates of exchange show no alteration, but there were symptoms of weakness in the market to-day. Rates may be yet quoted at par, but takers are becoming more numerous at those rates. The money market is easy for paper; a plethora is offered but there are few takers. Gold is no longer so scarce, as all the banks opened their vaults this morning and lent gold, no doubt to remove some of the pressure that threatened yesterday to put gold up to 50, and to produce a panic. The greater care of the situation was evident on all sides, but it looks as if the tug of war is merely postponed for 30 days.
Mr J. Bell was welcomed to-day on his arrival from Loreto and Venado Tuerto. Affairs in that district he reports on the mend. Some farmers have done well, but others have lost considerably. Cattle are in fair condition, but sheep are thin.
In another column we publish the National Bank Board note to the Minister. It looks as if we were on the eve of more paper issue. An increase in the emission would be a deplorable mistake and would immediately put up gold. This is the opinion of the market, and Dr Pacheco ought to be guided by that opinion.
Mr. M Trebino, the popular Coal-King, favors us with the following report for the fortnight:—
The arrivals of coal for this month, including this port and Montevideo, reach the heavy quantity of 70,000 tons. This figure embraces all arrivals whether for consumption in the outside market, or for the several gas and railway companies.
Cardiff coal—The market is well supplied with the article. Last sales to arrive were effected at 11 to 13 $m/n per ton, according to quantity and to point of discharge. The market closes weak.
Glasgow coal—Purveyors and consumers are well supplied. Cargoes expected have been sold at 10½ to 11 $m/n delivered in the Riachuelo.
Newcastle—Although there is slight demand, owing to scarcity of arrivals, the article sells with difficulty at 11 to 12 $m/n per ton in the Riachuelo. The last sales were effected at 13 to 14 $m/n.
Coke—Owing to the arrival of several lots, sales have been effected "disponible," at 20 to 22 $m/n, in lighters in the Riachuelo.
Brickets—Several lots arrived were sold, and also to arrive, at 10 $m/n on board in the Riachuelo.
Cadiz Salt—Three cargoes on the way out have been sold at reserved rates.
The contractors of the City Improvement Works have sent a note to the Minister of the Interior, requesting the Government to pay for the expenses of these works in gold, or its equivalent in the legal tender. The depreciation of the currency must leave very heavy losses to the contractors, whose petition not only refers to future payments but to those already effected since the month of January, when the crisis broke out.
The Board of the City Improvement Works is now in another dilemma as the contract with engineer Bateman expired two days ago. The Board must necessarily renew the contract with the distinguished engineer, who will no doubt see the justice of the request. He must continue at the head of the works until they are completed; if this contract is not renewed, and if the works should not give satisfactory results when completed under the direction of other engineers, no blame and no protest can be raised against Mr Bateman. This is a serious question, since it affects works that have cost 5 millions sterling up to the present. As long as Mr Bateman figures as engineer of the works we may rely on their excellence and on his assiduous attention that they turn out satisfactory.
The following is a summary of operations effected this morning at the ring during official hours:—

Speculative fancy must be playing a leading part in the startling news of some colleagues, with reference to the loan and financial negotiations of the Government abroad, and the Bolsa has grown so susceptible that there are visible signs of annoyance in many quarters, more or less injured by announcements that may, or may not be reliable. The official organ flatly contradicts the damaging statement that the four hundred thousand sovereigns, which arrived in the Tamar and Leibnitz, were shipped as an advance on the loan; it emphatically denies that the Government has pawned its National Bank Shares. According to our official colleague, the four hundred thousand sovereigns belong exclusively to the National Bank, and every sovereign has been paid for already. The Bank has not taken exchange, and there is no necessity on the part of the Bank to take bills, to pay for this gold. These statements are pretty clear and are a flat contradiction of the late rumors and assertions spread in the hall and launched in the columns of several colleagues. Whom are we to believe? The majority, no doubt, will attach more faith and more importance to the statements of the official organ than to the assertions of other papers; but there is such a strong feeling of incredulity in the market that very many will believe in nothing and will wait for the evidence of facts. How often has the speculation been "gulled" with the announcement that the Pellegrini loan had been signed and sealed? How often have we been deluded with the false promises of the State Banks, posting notices that they would draw for exchange? A lengthy catalogue of broken promises and false statements might be drawn up to prove the wisdom of those who now refuse to believe in any more specious assurances or declarations. The checkered record of the month covers only a short span of thirty days, but it is incredible what a vast compilation of false reports has been squeezed into such brief space.
If, under the present peculiar circumstances of the market, we can give credit to the very best authority, we may state that the "via crucis" of the Pellegrini loan is not yet at an end and that there are still faint hopes of settling the business. It is devoutly to be hoped that the last act of this financial comedy is at hand, since all are tired of the loan and look upon its failure as a most desirable consummation. Telegrams from London announce that Baring and Morgan have accepted all the proposed amendments and that Dr. Pellegrini returns to the R. Plate with the new bases of a fresh negotiation. The market is heartily sorry, but much importance is attached to the news, as it implies that the Government is very eager to make the loan. There is an amusing feature about Dr. Pellegrini's return. When he left the R. Plate he took with him a strong individuality, as agent of the Argentine Government, but a process of absorption has evidently taken place in his contact with the London and Paris bankers, since he returns with a duality of character; in one pocket he has the conditions of his Government and in the other those of the Syndicate. His return will give a livelier aspect to affairs, but the market and Congress are opposed to foreign loans at present,

The gold market ruled dull during afternoon hours. A weak feeling prevailed during the earlier part of the afternoon, but slight reaction was felt towards half-past four. The premium touched bottom at 44 and fluctuated at this price and 44¼ for some time, but the market closed at 45 to 45½ for Monday. About three hundred thousand dollars were sold for the 31st and four hundred thousand for September.
The Revista Financiera appeared to-day with a strong article against the Forced Currency Bill before Congress. Our colleague also attacks Mr. Legarreta's arbitration in re Bertram v Unzue.
Shipbrokers report a dead-and-alive market in shipping. The steam tonnage in port is not so heavy as this time last year, but freights are duller.
